

ALEXANDRIA, VA.
SATURDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 3.

dislike not only attaches to the players, but even to those who manifest the slightest interest in the game.

FROM WASHINGTON

Special Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 3, 1891.
A democratic club of the District of Columbia and Maryland was to have been organized here last night for the express object of nominating Senator Gorman for the Presidency, but the Senator being apprised of it, begged that nothing of the kind be done. He was, he said, grateful for the kindness of his friends, but that a club formed for such an object would not be agreeable to him. The parties interested in the movement, therefore, organized a club to promote the general cause of democracy, but not that of any one particular democrat.

For the first time in ten years loaded canal boats were locked out of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal at the Rock Creek outlet of that canal into the Potomac yesterday evening, and were towed to Alexandria. For some years previous to the suspension of navigation on the canal the boats were lowered into the river above Georgetown by expensive machinery, but the present managers of the canal do not recognize the contract that was made for that expensive work, have abandoned its use, and reverted to the old and inexpensive outlet lock.

The four-year term of Commodore Melville, as Engineer in Chief of the U. S. Navy, will expire next January, but Secretary Tracy has signified his intention of appointing him for a second term.
The iron track has been laid on the Washington and Arlington Railroad from the Aqueduct Bridge to McLaughlin's house, about midway between the bridge and Arlington. It is understood that as a public road runs through the property of the Alexandria Real Estate Company at the south end of the Aqueduct bridge, the railroad can be built along such road without the consent of that company.

The following are the only changes in the 4th class postoffices of Virginia that were made to-day: Chesapeake, Floyd county, J. J. Puff appointed postmaster vice C. A. Conner, removed; Hamburg, Shenandoah county, C. E. Headley, vice S. J. Davis, resigned. Intelligence: he is to day from Maine is to the effect that Mr. Blaine's condition is by no means hopeful, and that the excitement produced by the burning of the chimney of his house three or four days ago made that condition still more apparent. The date of his return to this city is indefinite. His house here was put in order for his return last month, but since then it has been locked up, and no body here now knows when it will be opened again.

Dr. P. J. Murphy, formerly chief of the Columbia lying in hospital of this city, died suddenly this morning. He was unmarried and had just bought and occupied a $25,000 house in the fashionable part of the city.

Among the strangers in the city to-day is ex-Congressman DeLozier of Virginia. He says there will be two delegations from Virginia to the next national republican convention, and that under the present organization in his State there can never be a united party. Col. Lamb, he says, is talked of for the new chairman of the State committee, but he would be just as objectionable as Mahone under the existing organization, which confers arbitrary power upon one man. He says he doesn't see how General Mahone can be deposed, unless the administration shall plainly express its wish to that effect. That, he says, would accomplish the desired object at once, but the administration shows no disposition to do so.

The President to-day refused to grant the request of the British Minister for the return to Canada of a Chinaman who had come from that country to this, and has directed that the man be sent to San Francisco and shipped to China.

It is reported here today that the new Chilean government is about to appoint a new minister to this country, and that his first business will be to request the immediate recall of Minister Egan, and that the President is sorely troubled about the reply he shall make to that request.

According to the report of the U. S. commissioner of railroads, printed to-day, the gross receipts of the railroad which the government is interested have increased, but there has been a decrease in the net earnings.

MRS. PRENTISS DEAD.—Mrs. Mary I. Prentiss, widow of the great Mississippi plottor and statesman, Sargent S. Prentiss, died in New Orleans Thursday, aged 67 years. She had been an invalid for several years.

Mrs. Prentiss was born near Natchez, Miss., in 1824, and was educated in Philadelphia. She was the daughter of James Cadwallader. After completing her education she returned to Mississippi, where she married Mr. Prentiss in 1842. The latter died on July 1, 1850, at Longwood, near Natchez. Their eldest son, George L., joined the Confederate army and died in Tennessee in 1862. Mrs. Prentiss leaves a son, S. S. Prentiss, an attorney at New Orleans, and two unmarried daughters. Since her youth she has been a devout member of the Episcopal Church.

FOUGHT IN THE ROAD.—A serious shooting affray occurred near Tallahassee, Fla., yesterday afternoon, the participants being John Crump, a farmer, and Overton Bernard, of the real estate firm of Bernard & Son. They had a dispute and went out of town to settle it. Bernard was opened upon by Crump firing a shot which missed him, but wounded his antagonist's horse. Bernard returned the fire and wounded Crump three times, after which Bernard returned to town. Crump in the meantime, fell from the animal he was riding into the road, where he was found by Mr. Adams, and carried to Tallahassee. Surgical attention was rendered him there.

BASEBALL.—The race for the baseball championship of the National League is practically ended, as the games to be played this evening cannot affect the result. The Boston club wins the pennant, followed in order by Chicago, New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Brooklyn, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati.

THE REAL DANGER OF THE CIGARETTE.—It is not the cigarette smoked in the ordinary fashion that does harm; it is the inhalation of smoke. This introduces quickly and delightfully a narcotic poison into the system and awakens in the habitue a sensation as delightful as that produced by opium. The seriousness of the cigarette to inhalation lies not alone in the fact that it involves a steady absorption of poison, but in the utter hopelessness of the habit and the entire inability of the indulger to give it up. Once a cigarette habit is formed, it is practically incurable. Tobacco smoke contains acropic vapor, carbon soot, nicotine, traces of certain organic acids and of such hydrocarbons as crotonene, and of products of the aniline series, such as pyridine. It is the nicotine, however, which probably does the harm.

It is proposed to use a portion of the reclaimed flats on the Potomac as an extra car yard for the Baltimore and Potomac and Richmond and Annapolis Railroads.

Australian papers concur in stating that John L. Sullivan's theatrical tour of the colonies has been a failure. It is understood that the company was to take passage for America recently, but later it was learned that the actors are stranded and were awaiting remittances from this country.

The first payments of bounty under the law, giving a bounty of two cents per pound on sugar produced in the United States, were made at the Treasury Department yesterday. They were both in favor of the Chilo Valley Sugar Company, of Chino, Cal., on two claims for the production of 340,000 pounds of beet sugar, and amounted to $6,800.

Frank Melbourne's rain-producing experiments at Goodland, Kan., have produced peculiar atmospheric phenomena. A slight rain was the first result. The thermometer fell rapidly and snow appeared to be coming. Those who have made wagers on the result claim their money on the rain. Prof. Melbourne's contract calls for a half-inch rainfall.

A meeting was held at Windsor, Ontario, Thursday night, to discuss the question of the political union of Canada and the United States. F. P. Bouteiller, warden of the county, Dr. O'Brien, ex-member of Parliament, and Sol White, member of Parliament, spoke in favor of annexation and resolutions in favor of it were adopted.

Went Mad on His Wedding Night.
A stylish-looking bridal couple registered at the Kimball House, Atlanta, Ga., Thursday night as George W. Kildow and wife. They were assigned to the bridal-chamber. An electric call upon the annunciator next morning called Head-Clerk Porter to the room. The door was opened by Mr. Kildow who inquired:

"Do you believe in the Lord Jesus Christ?"
"I do," most humbly answered the clerk.
"Enter thou, then, into this abode," said Kildow, and he quickly turned the key upon the clerk, who found himself in the room with a raving lunatic on one side of him, while over in the corner crouched the terrified and weeping bride. The madman's antics were curious, but he was soon quieted and placed under arrest, while some ladies came to the relief of the bride. The unfortunate man was so violent that he had to be taken down to the calaboose and put in a cell.

He is a well-known Presbyterian preacher of West Virginia. He had married Miss McNaughton in Nashville and started on his bridal trip. The bride had spent the night dodging the movements of a madman, not knowing what to do. Later in the day the Presbyterian clergyman of Atlanta interred themselves in the case. The doctors declare that the aberration is only temporary.

Maj. Elliott M. Braxton Dead.

Major E. M. Braxton, a well-known citizen of Fredericksburg, and of the State, died yesterday evening at about 5:30 o'clock in the 67th year of his age. In 1851 he was elected to the Virginia Senate and served two terms with honor. At the breaking out of the war he was made captain of Company I, Twelfth Virginia Regiment, and was afterwards promoted to Major on Gen. Cook's staff, in which capacity he continued with distinction and bravery until the war closed. In 1872 he was elected to Congress and served one term, at the expiration of which he resumed his profession of law which he prosecuted with learning and ability until several years ago, when he retired on account of failing health. He was greatly beloved by all who knew him.

Wannamaker's Girls in Black

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3.—All the saleswomen and cash girls in the Wannamaker store reported for duty yesterday morning in black attire. This was the result of an order to that effect issued several days ago. There was much feminine excitement and indignation when the order was communicated to them and some of those who affected bright colors and jaunty styles declared that they would resign before they would don the sombre robe prescribed—but they didn't. "After awhile," said one of them, "we will be ordered to eat certain things and leave others alone. I don't object so much to wearing black in the store, but I do object to wearing it all the time, and that's what we'll have to do now. Heretofore when our Sunday dresses began to look old we wore them in the store; now we can't do it unless we wear black all the time." Another bright-eyed little saleswoman gave a hint as to the cause of the order being issued. "I'm not bothered much about the order," said she. "I always did dress in quiet colors. But some of the girls have been dressing a little too gay; wearing terribly striking colors and having their dresses cut rather low. That's why the order was issued. The girls are required, it is said, to buy the material for their black dresses at the Wannamaker store, but are allowed a discount of 50 per cent. on the price."

Shot Himself in the Head.

ROANOKE, Va., Oct. 3.—Charles Adams, a school-teacher of this city, shot himself in the head yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock at the school-house on Third avenue. L. J. Kelly, a resident of the neighborhood, heard the shot and rushed into the house, where he found Adams lying on the floor with an angry wound over the left eye and a 22-caliber revolver at his side. He was only stunned, and in a short time recovered sufficiently to say that he was firing the weapon and that the shooting was accidental. Neighbors, however, say he has been nervous and dependent for some days and has been talking about suiciding. The doctor says the ball glanced and lodged under the scalp and that the man will recover. He is from Maryland and has resided about six months in this city.
